1. What elements of the course and instruction did you find most helpful to the accomplishment of the course's goals?

   I don't think it would be possible to complete this course without the PowerPoint. There is just too much information to cover in two and half hours of class a week. The PowerPoint is very helpful in a number of ways. We already have most of the information on paper so we spend time listening and understanding what Mark is teaching us rather than focusing on writing down the notes.

   PowerPoint is very helpful.

2. What elements of the course and instruction did you find least helpful? What changes, if any, do you suggest?

   Sometimes, I felt like he rushed through the foundation of some lectures, but maybe I just wasn't catching on and/or didn't prepare for the class.

Labs and office hours were helpful and allowed students a chance to ask questions that came up during study that were not addressed in class. They were also a good way to counterbalance the speed of the class.

2. What elements of the course and instruction did you find least helpful? What changes, if any, do you suggest?

The main problem I had with the class was the speed at which some elements were taught. Also, I had difficulty consolidating ideas that were connected although not at the most obvious levels (i.e., connections between different tests and distributions) mainly due to the speed at which the class ran.
